About NFCR

The National Foundation for Cancer Research (NFCR) was established in 1973 to support cancer research and public education relating to earlier prevention, better diagnosis, new and more effective treatments, and ultimately, cures for all types of cancer. NFCR promotes and facilitates collaboration among scientists to accelerate the pace of discovery from bench to bedside.

To date, NFCR has provided over $380 million in support of discovery-oriented basic research focused on understanding how and why cells become cancerous and on cancer prevention education. NFCR's scientists are unraveling cancer's molecular mysteries and translating these discoveries into therapies that hold great promise for curing cancer. NFCR is about Research for a Cure —cures for all types of cancer.

Research for a Cure

About the Szent-Györgyi Prize

The Annual Szent-Györgyi Prize for Progress in Cancer Research was established in 2006 by the National Foundation for Cancer Research (NFCR) and named in honor of Albert Szent-Györgyi, M.D., Ph.D., Nobel Laureate and co-founder of NFCR. It is awarded to scientists whose seminal discoveries resulted directly or indirectly in high-impact clinical benefits that save patients' lives.

Patron and Sponsor Benefits

- ✓ Demonstrate your commitment to cancer research.
- ✓ Receive international recognition as a supporter of one of the leading international prizes in cancer research.
- ✓ Interact with outstanding leaders in the field of cancer research.
